

Join our undergraduate summer fellowship program in medical physics.

The Radiation Oncology Physics Division at Mass General is recruiting an undergraduate student from a diverse background for a 10-week medical physics fellowship program this summer. Racial/ethnic minorities, women, members of the LGBTQ+ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, and more) community, and persons with disability are strongly encouraged to apply.

About the program

The selected candidate will work with a Harvard faculty Physicist on a research and development project that is designed to motivate the student to continue to pursue a career in medical physics. The student will also have opportunities to get didactic and hands-on experiences on radiation therapy.

The fellowship may be hybrid, based on hospital policy and student preference. A stipend of $6,000 will be paid to the fellow in two installments. Please contact Yi Wang, PhD, Fellowship Program Director, with any questions: yi.wang@mgh.harvard.edu.

Eligibility

- Completed at least 2 years of undergraduate studies and have declared (or are eligible to declare) a major in physics, engineering, or other sciences
- United States (US) citizen or permanent US resident
- Have not previously participated in the American Association of Physicists in Medicine (AAPM) DREAM Summer Fellowship

How to apply

Visit gray.mgh.harvard.edu/apply/397-undergrad-fellow to access the online application. You will be required to submit the following no later than March 1, 2024.

- Completed application form
- 1-page statement of interest
- Official transcripts
- Letter of reference (optional but strongly encouraged)

Mass General is a teaching hospital of Harvard Medical School (HMS), located in Boston, Massachusetts. The Department of Radiation Oncology utilizes a wide range of cutting-edge technologies to serve patients with cancer and other benign diseases. The Physics Division also has a strong research group with ample grant funding. The Radiation Physics Division has 30+ HMS faculty physicists and 6 clinical staff physicists.
